

Do you want this man making your laws?

He's about to become a member of the Massachusetts Legislature!

Unless you act now.

On June 1, 2003, Carl Sciortino (at left in photo) defiled the Cathedral of the Holy Cross in Boston by disrupting Mass to protest the Church's stance against homosexual "marriage". According to newspaper reports, Sciortino and his gay partner turned their backs to the altar during Mass, kissed, and held hands as they marched out. They then held a press conference on the steps outside, further denouncing the Church.

This past summer, Sciortino campaigned tirelessly for State Representative in the Massachusetts 34th Middlesex District (Somerville, Medford).

This was a very unusual campaign! Sciortino was given enormous financial and organizational support from state and national homosexual political action committees. Money flowed in from across the country. By some estimates, over $200,000 was spent (ten times the normal amount for a state rep race). Out-of-state "volunteers" flooded into the district. Slick mailings went to every home each week.

Some of the groups involved were: Freedom to Marry, the Mass. Gay & Lesbian Political Caucus, SupportEquality, Mass-Equality, OutSomerville, and Human Rights Campaign. In addition, the Gay & Lesbian Victory fund had a separate fundraising effort for Sciortino in Washington D.C.

During the campaign, they were very careful not to mention Sciortino's homosexual extremist history, or his radical plans. And the Boston media (newspapers, TV, even the talk radio shows) refused to bring it up or even discuss it, despite repeated communications from Article 8 Alliance.

So on Sept. 14 Sciortino won the Democratic primary, defeating pro-marriage Rep. Vinnie Ciampa by a sliver of 96 votes! Since there is no Republican challenger in the general election, Sciortino was all set to enter the Massachusetts Legislature! The gay movement's mission was to punish pro-marriage legislators like Rep. Ciampa. And put fear into the others.

Sciortino has a long record as a militant homosexual activist.

Sciortino told the press his political experience at Tufts University (class of 2000) taught him to "challenge the status quo". No kidding! His radicalism there was legendary.

While at Tufts, Sciortino was co-chairman of the radical Tufts Transgender, Lesbian, Gay, and Bisexual Collective (TTLGBC). Among their activities during that period:

- Demanded that the "culture" requirement at Tufts be satisfiable by Lesbian/Gay/Bisexual/Transgendered (LGBT)-related classes.
- Plastered the campus with flyers advertising a how-to seminar on anal sex, which also described proper lubrication and use of sex toys.
- Promoted "Queer Pride Month" on the Tufts campus, turning April into "Gaypril".
- Put on a drag ball with a homecoming "king".
- Sponsored campus-wide homosexual coming-out days and queer history workshops.
- Held monthly meetings that included discussions of "Pornography and the Queer Community", "Monogamy, Polyamory, and You", and "Transgender: What we have to offer and learn".

In addition, Sciortino led the charge to demand co-ed dorm rooms at Tufts, arguing that single-sex rooms prove "institutionalized heterosexism and homophobia", putting gay students in awkward situations where they might have crushes on their straight roommates.

In a nationally publicized incident, he acted as advisor to a lesbian activist as she used the college judicial system to attempt to keep the Tufts Christian Fellowship banned from campus, after they would not allow her to serve as officer.

After the primary, as news of Sciortino's true agenda came to light, a wave of outrage began to sweep through the district. On October 10, Rep. Ciampa announced he would run on Nov. 2 as a write-in candidate. And the gay activists announced they'll come back to stop him!

VINNIE CIAMPA NEEDS OUR HELP TO WIN THIS FIGHT. IF HE LOSES, WE ALL LOSE.
